Known Limitations

❏ This phone only supports images in JPEG format. It is not able to print GIF images or any other kind of image attached to email or MMS messages. The phone is not able to print images taken from moving media (videos and movies). It is not able to print black and white animated images. These images are sometimes known as picture mail.

❏ If the images you are trying to print exceed the phone or printer memory the printer will be unable to complete the task. The images may only partially print or not print at all. Usually you can fix this problem by deleting items that use a lot of memory. This will create more free space in the memory and the printer should be able to complete the task.

❏ When using a NOKIA 7650 handset with an old OS version, it is possible that an error message may be displayed upon completion of the installation. Additionally, unless the handset is reset upon completion of the installation, it is possible that it may not function correctly.

❏ JPEG images attached to emails must first be saved to a file. Then you can print the image.

❏ The printer application does not recognize images sent to the phone using Bluetooth wireless technology. The image must first be saved to a file. Then you can print the image.

❏ Not all of the screens have a help option.

❏ On occasion the Bluetooth wireless technology may stop working. This is normally because "Find Printers" has been accessed repeatedly in a short space of time. When this happens, some printers may display a red light or a flashing red light. To restart the Bluetooth wireless technology, go to the phone's "Connections" screen. Then go to the Bluetooth wireless technology settings and switch the Bluetooth wireless technology off and then on again.
